THE ANGORA GOAT BUSINESS

A correspondent writes us to ask for information as to the price of Angora wool in this market. While there are no parties here who purchase the article it is difficult to get its market value, but parties [illegible] might buy at say 60 cents per lb. As many persons in the State are introducing and breeding these animals the [illegible] asked [illegible] We give the answer to this in the language of two Californians who have had perhaps as much experience in the business as any on the coast. They say that the lowest percentage [illegible] their hands [illegible] lambing three times in two years. They call the increase 125 per cent, and find the results of the foregoing figure with $1000 invested in 50 ewes and [illegible] as follows:

Wethers $[illegible] 607 wool $2 549 ewes $[illegible] [illegible] making a total cost of $[illegible] Deduct cost of rams and 3 per cent mortality [illegible] $167 [illegible] is left for clear profit or $[illegible] to [illegible] interest in eight years. The above figures show, says the party, a capital of $1 500 expended for [illegible] ewes (common goats) at $2 50 per head and fifteen sixteenths breed bucks at $80 each leaving $100 to pay for getting the stock together. It will be seen that the sale of the wethers will raise money to get pure bred bucks to follow all the [illegible] bucks to the same ewes and getting young bucks every year at $200 per head to go with the [illegible] [illegible] giving the shepherd one half the increase [illegible] [illegible] reckon the wethers at [illegible] [illegible] With proper management [illegible] the [illegible]

THE CHICAGO FIRE

Incidents, Anecdotes, Etc.

[illegible]

And [illegible] after [illegible] the hot air [illegible] [illegible] we were [illegible] by the [illegible] through the [illegible] and wondered whether all these poor [illegible] fires were [illegible] [illegible] blasphemous [illegible]

[illegible]

Such was the expression of one [illegible] [illegible] theater [illegible] [illegible] like a flash from Heaven [illegible]

What is the use of a Fire Department at all if they cannot save the city? [illegible] asked, but rarely answered. At each gap in the wall of building, people would [illegible] There is the place to stand and when the flames swept past the cry was: "All is lost. [illegible]"

[illegible]

Where was [illegible] and why did he not blow [illegible] streets in the path of the [illegible] And some then answered. He is afraid of getting the [illegible] after him again. The Mayor was very little inquired after and, indeed, poor man, he appeared to be [illegible]

[illegible]

In Chicago last night the writer met him on [illegible] near Third avenue [illegible] Mr. Mayor, what do you think of the situation now? [illegible] replied [illegible] every direction [illegible] the disaster is awful [illegible] what we are going to do to check it. Then the old man took out his handkerchief and wiped a [illegible] the very picture of [illegible]

[illegible]

When the fire was still several blocks distant the employes of the Postoffice were directed by Gen. McArthur to make everything ready for moving, and when it became apparent that the building would burn every thing of value was placed in the Government wagons and taken to the West Side station. Not a dollar was lost. The stamps and stamped envelopes and the accounts of the money order and registry departments were placed in one wagon and sent under trusty guard to a place of safety. It was afterward ascertained [illegible]

THE [illegible] OF THIS WAGON LOAD

[illegible] Many cases of stamped envelopes [illegible] left in the old building and burned. Their nominal value is supposed to be about $100 000 but they are all accounted for in the books of the Department at Washington, and it will be an easy thing to relieve Gen. McArthur from responsibility by an act of indemnity.

THE ST. JAMES HOTEL

In the meantime on State street with great rapidity the fire had caught on to the St. James Hotel and the glaring flames could be seen through the closed shutters on that street within the rooms of the hotel, and in a few moments had found a strong foothold in the rear of that building in the small frames that were occupied [illegible] owners of the marble yard of that locality. It now was evident that unless something was done, and that speedily, the buildings on the northwest corner of State and Van Buren streets must succumb to the elements. With this object

FIFTY KEGS OF POWDER

By order of Col. Hepner [illegible] were placed under the cellar of the building in the basement with the intention of blowing up the massive building. [illegible] opposite side of Van Buren clear back to Wabash avenue there was assembled an immense crowd, and when the cry [illegible] upon the [illegible] powder, powder, they are going to blow up the house, stand back, clear the way, etc., the throng [illegible] running, everything, now in their wild frenzy to escape what they thought was [illegible] death [illegible] was seriously injured [illegible] At precisely 1:20 o'clock

THE FALL [illegible]

With a terrific report hurling glass [illegible] and doors upwards, but with no [illegible] effect [illegible] it seemed to me that the result was exactly contrary to that for which it was intended, only opening the broad windows [illegible] the heat of the building and the flames [illegible] all then fire licking up everything that came in contact with their fiery tongues until the once [illegible] structure presented a grandly illuminated spectacle and the St. James Hotel was doomed to be numbered with the things of the past.

A THOUGHTLESS JEST

Mr. Hilton—more popularly known to a whole army of hotel customers as "Charlie" Hilton—was for many years connected with the Briggs House before the fire of 1871, and subsequently with the new Sherman until he came into the St. James management. Mr. Hilton's wife and child with baggage [illegible] hastily packed [illegible] by the [illegible] o'clock train last evening. Mr. Hilton riding with them on the outward bound train to one of [illegible] stations. As they rode by the [illegible] Charlie remarked in joke that if the St. James went (he thought vastly improbable) it would now have a chance to save [illegible] for himself [illegible] subsequently found [illegible] as well as the necessity for doing it.

The radiant golden cross upon St. Mary's [illegible] the first indicated that that edifice had escaped destruction. Not so with the magnificent First Baptist Church, nearly opposite. But [illegible] the wooden pinnacles surmounting the tower caught fire and in a few minutes the beautiful [illegible] crowned temple—the pride of the Baptist denomination—was engulphed in flame. Just before this Major D. W. Whittle and Messrs. Nehemiah Hawkins and D. W. Baker entered the sacred edifice and held a prayer meeting. A similar incident occurred on the day of the great fire. Dr. Everts, the pastor, and a few brethren held a prayer meeting and [illegible] cost about $[illegible]

[illegible]

At [illegible] o'clock, eleven minutes after the second alarm, the general alarm was turned in by Assistant Marshal Petrie. This [illegible] [illegible] the west side engines were [illegible] [illegible] All succeeded [illegible] Engine Company No. [illegible] the flames [illegible] they were compelled to abandon [illegible] and the handsome steamer was warped and twisted into a mass of half melted iron and steel in the fiery furnace that engulfed it.

The colored troops fought nobly, and the men of No. 21 stood by their engine to the last moment, and not until they found that it was absolutely impossible to save the machine did they leave it to its fate. When asked about their engine at any time during the remainder of the day they would only remark [illegible] and meander [illegible]

On Thursday [illegible] a large number of [illegible]

and their effects were tumbled promiscuously into the street and placed in wagons to be taken no one knew where, while the poor [illegible] and excitement [illegible] the street or in their houses wringing their hands in great distress and crying bitter tears over their misfortunes. One woman, the [illegible] Stillwell, whose [illegible] No. 1111 [illegible] avenue, escaped the fire but was threatened [illegible] pale and trembling with fright. She repeated [illegible] that she had a dream a month ago [illegible] was to be.

It was in her house that the late Capt. Hy[illegible] and [illegible] dreams and [illegible]

At No. [illegible] South Clark street a house [illegible] a dying woman [illegible] Michael M[illegible] of Hook & Ladder No. [illegible] the screams of the woman's companions and rushed to the rescue. He had great difficulty in reaching the jeopardized woman [illegible] But he went along heedless of consequences and finally succeeded in reaching her and bore her in his arms through the burning building to the walk below. There were several other acts of bravery performed by the firemen, police and citizens.

Passing around from the Grand Pacific, the writer came to the disreputable stronghold of Chicago in the neighborhood of Polk street and Fourth avenue. The fire had spent itself in this neighborhood. But not until it had swept away with a touch of flame some of the most noted resorts of [illegible] the city. Here there were gathered together on the west side of Fourth avenue hundreds of wicked women representing all grades of the profession from the [illegible] of the most fashionable places in the West to [illegible] of the low brothels and the pretty [illegible] saloons. These women saw in their misfortunes a fair prevention [illegible] and many of them were [illegible] in the highest kind of style. [illegible] the open windows of some houses strains of music could be heard rising above the rattling and wheezing of the engines. Now and then [illegible] burst of merriment that indicated nothing so surely as [illegible] champagne and fine cigars. This was not the sound mind in a sound body meeting disaster with a courageous front, it was the vile revelry of abandoned men and women on the very borders of their fellow creatures' misery. On the steps of these houses and within the parlors though easily visible from the street were some of the young men about town who have never before proclaimed their [illegible] associations in a public manner. The contagion of the hour in this case was too much for them, and all joined in the disgraceful merrymaking with a heartiness and energy of manner worthy of better pursuits.

THE [illegible] OF THE DEMI-MONDE

From Fourth avenue would have overjoyed the hearts of reformers could they have witnessed the hurried exodus. Hospitality is however not confined to any one class of people and the soiled doves who were burned out on the east side of the thoroughfare found shelter with their "birds of a feather" on the other side thereof.

THE MICHIGAN AVENUE JAM

About 6 o'clock Michigan avenue from Congress to Twelfth street became gorged with teams presenting a sight not unlike that witnessed on the morning of October 9, 1871. Loads of household furniture on drays, trucks, wagons, express wagons and hand-carts, light buggies and hacks loaded with trunks, foot passengers with great bundles on their shoulders filled the whole street all moving south, while the cross streets were pouring a continuous stream into the mass. The gorge would move a dozen steps and then come to a halt and then start again and close up against an obstruction, but good nature prevailed all along the whole line and in the end all the teams got out of the range of the fire.

THE WESTERN UNION [illegible]

Amid the confusion there were some notably calm individuals. The telegraph reporters worked as steadily as on the most ordinary occasion. The Western Union Company's wires being on the east side of the street where the buildings had gone down, were stretched badly so while the fire was yet dangerously near the enterprising managers were transferring the wires across the street and hurriedly planting a few poles maintained unbroken communication with the world out of us.

FAST ASLEEP

In one place four little children were observed fast asleep on a mattress on the side walk while the roar in the streets was thundering around them. The steps and passages of the Lake Shore Passenger Depot were filled with men, women and children who had fled thither with their baggage as the only shelter available. The Illinois Central Railroad commenced running their cars out of the depot at 3 o'clock and soon had rolled [illegible] all rolling stock.

All along the boundary of the fire the crowds were enormous and the Lake shore appeared a solid mass of human beings from an early hour in the evening. North Clark, Dearborn and Wells were crowded with vehicles filled with furniture and other goods which were being conveyed to the remotest portion of the city for safety.

A [illegible] INCIDENT

Of the fire was the plucky and successful attempt of a woman to save from a burning building what she apparently held dearer to her than life itself. While the roof of her [illegible] was aglow with flames, she rushed into it and after a disappearance of about ten minutes [illegible] appeared bearing in her arms four cats all of them howling and clawing in a most energetic style. Bearing her precious burden in her arms she fought her way through the crowd in Fourth avenue and was soon lost to view with her feline [illegible]

A [illegible] WATER [illegible]

To assist [illegible] a liquor store is a work for which the average Chicago [illegible] always ready. Many amusing incidents occurred at the [illegible] At a store in State street [illegible] the crowd [illegible] that the police were powerless [illegible] [illegible]

TAKE PARK

Was early [illegible] by poor people who [illegible] the means [illegible] [illegible] utensils and clothing [illegible] and [illegible] the little they had saved [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] SUFFERED [illegible]

A commendable feature of the afternoon's [illegible] was noticeable in the fact that soon after the breaking out of the fire Messrs. [illegible] J. V. Farwell & Co. and [illegible] of the other wholesale firms [illegible] all their available teams and employes to the scene of the conflagration to assist in saving the property and to render other neighborly assistance to the unfortunate victims.

DESERTED HER BABY

A negro prostitute in a house on Third avenue threw her babe on a bed as she left the house to escape. It was rescued subsequently by a police officer.

ECCENTRICITY

A queer instance of the eccentricity of the fire was shown in the case of the Academy of Design on the corner of Michigan avenue and Van Buren street. The buildings on the [illegible] went down in the flame [illegible] with its precious art stores, including some of the best and best efforts of our artists both in painting and sculpture, besides a number of the valuable pictures saved from the old Opera house gallery in the fire of October 1871 was [illegible] unharmed.

OREGON

There will be a fair held in Astoria on or about the 11th of August for the benefit of the Catholic Church now nearly finished.

Letters are held for postage at the Oregon City Postoffice for Mrs. Albert Wright, Hep[illegible] and W. A. Morris, Fairview, I. T.

Despite the people's movement, Salem cows continue to unlock gates, climb garden fences, break down shrubbery and eat out of farmers' wagons in the town as ever.

Because a vessel got out of the channel at the mouth of the Willamette and grounded, and a scissor grinder and a fruit peddler have made their appearance at Astoria, the paper at that place thinks Portland is bound to succumb.

Articles of incorporation have been filed in the office of the Secretary of State by the Stayton (Marion county) Flouring Mill Company, capital $6 000, shares of $120 each. Incorporators, D. S. Stayton, Ambrose Sloper, G. W. [illegible], John W. [illegible] Thomas, Cyrus Clarke, Francis M. Hemlin and James F. Linch.

Aumsville, Marion county, needs a harness maker, a shoemaker and another blacksmith. For enterprising young men who are "on the work" and who may be seeking a location to go into business for themselves and are limited as to capital, here is a good opening. The country around is well settled with a thriving population which is constantly being increased both by immigration and otherwise.

Mr. Truman Bonney and a man by the name of Hutchins, of French Prairie, had a dispute about some trivial matter last Tuesday. Hutchins with his son pitched into Bonney, who retreated into his castle, and being reinforced by his better half again sallied forth, but as the couple were past the age to do able-bodied fighting they got the worst of the encounter, receiving blows and kicks until they got enough and yelled peccavi.

Professor J. F. McCraw, of Salem, who has been a teacher of vocal music for the past six years, has succeeded in inventing a transposing calendar. The device is very simple in structure and provides for each interval in the Major Diatonic scale, and shows what letter or letters are required to be flatted or sharped in order to preserve the prescribed order. The calendar is so plain and practical that any intelligent boy or girl of ten years can be taught the transposition of the scale in a few elementary lessons.

Willamette Free Hall Society, at Eugene City, have filed articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State. Incorporators R. B. Cochran, Samuel Smith and G. W. Murch. The object of this incorporation is to erect and maintain a hall of suitable dimensions which shall be forever free for the discussion of and for the delivery of lectures upon all subjects of a moral or scientific character, including atheism, deism, spiritualism, Christianity or any of its various creeds and all subjects relating to science and philosophy, also for public assemblages where the public good is to be subserved, etc.

The Salem Record has this: A basket meeting was held at Without Soda Springs in Clackamas county on Sunday by the Rev. John Denizon. A large attendance was on the ground and everything passed along well until about three o'clock, when two young men [illegible] naked open an old sore and both after some little altercation drew their revolvers simultaneously, but one of the parties accidentally dropping his weapon at the moment the other put his No. 10 cowhides on it and stood "to the feller" off. Friends interfered and there would be shootists separated without any blood being shed.

An adjourned meeting of the Marion County Woman Suffrage Association met at Salem on Saturday, the 18th. The Secretary's report was read and accepted. The Corresponding Secretary, Belle W. Cooke, reported having sent letters enclosing copies of the petition to be presented to the coming Legislature to the Secretary of every Grange in the county. No response is yet having been received the Corresponding Secretary was instructed to make no further effort in this direction. The Association was resolved into a Committee of the Whole to circulate the petition asking suffrage for women throughout the town and adjacent country. The lady President, Mrs. John Minto, made an elegant impromptu address. On motion a committee of three was appointed to collect in the petitions and see if further action will be needed to circulate the [illegible] properly. The committee consisted of Mrs. [illegible] Strong, Mrs. B. W. Cooke and Mr. [illegible] This meeting adjourned to meet the last Saturday in August.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

The lower Fraser is in want of laborers and artisans.

Letters received from Omenica state that the miners at work there are making large wages.

Christie & Ferguson, with a band of British Columbia beeves for Manitoba, had passed Clinton.

The run of salmon in the Fraser river is improving greatly, and large numbers of fish are now being [illegible]

John McCann [illegible] has taken the contract to keep the road from Lillooet to Clinton in order for three years for $2,900.

A party of men left Victoria by the [illegible] to prospect a new river [illegible] stream which empties into the Pacific ocean 60 miles above Stickeen.

A private letter states that Harper Brothers [illegible] to drive through to Cassiar a large band of cattle by the new trail from Quesnel Mouth, had returned, the fine rains having rendered the trail impassible.

Mr. James Wilcox, a pioneer resident of Victoria, died suddenly in his cabin on [illegible] street [illegible] of July 1st. He had just [illegible] work in his claim for dinner and was standing up when he fell dead.

[illegible] Mr. Walkem, the delegate to London in behalf of the Province of British Columbia in the matter of the overland railway, sailed from Montreal last week and will reach London toward the end of the current week.

On Thursday of last week a half bridge about 18 miles off Yale gave way under a four ox team. According to latest accounts a derrick was rigged by means of which it was expected three of the cattle would be rescued. The fourth one would die.

British Columbia has been districted for the purposes of the new Act. The land recording districts are Victoria, Cowichan, Salt Spring Island, Nanaimo, New Westminster, Yale, Kamloops, Osoyoos, Lillooet, Kootenay, Cariboo, Omineca and Cassiar.

One hundred acres of land believed to contain coal between the Wellington and Vancouver mines in Nanaimo District was sold at auction last week for $20 an acre or $2,000 for the lot. The bidding was spirited—starting at $10 per acre. Mr. Shakespeare is the purchaser.

A correspondent of the New Westminster Herald, writing under date of Hope, July 16th, says: Jose Bonez was shot and killed by a man named Peter Adair at Keremeos a few days ago. Cause whisky. The murderer was promptly arrested by J. C. Haynes, Esq., and arrived here yesterday in charge of Mr. Shuttleworth, en route for Yale. Mr. Shuttleworth reports the trail in a very bad condition and dangerous for travel.

THE TERRITORIES

Silver City wants a [illegible] barber.

The Seattle Intelligencer establishment is offered for sale.

Settlers are filling up Paradise Valley in northern Idaho.

Col. [illegible] has returned to Walla Walla from the Wallowa Valley [illegible] Indians being found.

Inflammatory diseases of the lungs, such as pneumonia, pleurisy, etc., are still very prevalent in Silver City.

Fred D. Hose, U. S. Postal Agent for Washington Territory, is now in the city. He will start for Olympia this morning.

A Silver City blacksmith named Mooney is reported to be wandering about in the mountains crazy with delirium tremens.

The Idaho World says that it has the statement of Mr. Ensign from his own lips that he is not a candidate for the Delegateship.

Moses Lyon, elected Marshal of Boise City on the 10th inst., died at that place on the 16th. His disease was neuralgia of the head.

The steamer Blakely had the misfortune a few days since to break three blades of her propeller by striking a snag near Port Defiance.

A Grange was organized at Mt. Idaho on the 10th inst. by H. H. Spalding, Deputy G. M. W. C. Pearson is Master and J. H. Robinson Sec.

A large amount of freight continues to arrive in Silver City. Several heavily laden mule teams came in last week being only ten days in making the trip from Winnemucca.

On the Fourth, at Island, W. T., some Indians had a free fight, while under the influence of bad whisky, in which one Indian was killed and several others badly used up.

Dan Seaman went over from Silver to Boise City last week and got fined $50 for pounding a colored barber whom he accused of stealing $50 out of his pocket while getting shaved.

H. A. Webster, lately appointed Collector of Customs at Port Townsend vice Hon. S. Garfielde, arrived overland from California last evening, and is registered at the Cosmopolitan.

The Owyhee Avalanche says: "Bill Walker, who was night watchman here several years ago, has recently married a buxom widow and a valuable farm near Yamhill, Oregon. Good for Bile."

The Jenny Pitts arrived in Port Townsend July 20th. Florence Queen sailed from Port Ludlow July 21st. Deacon arrived in Seattle July 20th. W. H. Gawley arrived in Port Madison July 21st.

At Fairview, Idaho, last week a man named Andrews swallowed an ounce and a half of white vitriol, and it remained in his stomach seventeen hours. He thought he was taking Epsom salts. It is thought he will recover.

A man named Reynolds of Owyhee, wagered $100 against $50 lately, that he could go on foot to the summit of Florida mountain, climb a tree there, and get back to Sommer camp saloon in forty minutes. He accomplished the feat in thirty six minutes.

Marshall Theobalds and Geo Roberts, two young men who left Seattle for Melbourne in February last, on board the ship Grace Darling, arrived safe at that place and are in good health. By a letter received in Seattle, it is learned that they may return to the Sound in August next.

The Intelligencer learns from Mr. Edward Oliver, of Useless Bay, Whidby Island, that on the 4th inst. Peter Gallagan went to visit a friend and on his return home he was accidentally drowned. After searching some time his body was found on the sandflats. The deceased had been working in Mr. Oliver's logging camp.

On the evening of the 3d inst., a Mr. Durham, lately located at Dungeness, W. T., as a harness maker, went to his shop as is supposed to prepare for the ball, but as he did not make his appearance that night or next day, the neighbors broke in the door and found him lying on the floor insensible. He died in two hours after being found.

The man who was with the unfortunate Schwartz when he lost his life in the lake near Seattle, is now under arrest as it is thought he may know something about the lost money. A preliminary hearing was had before Justice Smith in the matter above referred to, but nothing of importance elicited. The hearing is continued until other witnesses can be had.

One Celestial stole a $600 damsel from another at Silver City, recently, whereat the latter became terribly indignant and declared that the woman in the case was a — sell sure enough. Another Chinaman at the same place suddenly decamped leaving several of his countrymen minus $300. An editor's cook in that place says: "Some Chinaman get too muchee bad all same Melica man."

A hearing was had at Olympia last Tuesday before the Land office involving some eight hundred cords of wood of Mr. Kosters and others of Seattle cut on the [illegible] part of the Maynard donation claim which has reverted to the Government. Some 150 cord more or less on the portion now claimed by H. McAleer were at once released; the parties were exculpated from the charge of trespass, as the claim had been in a state of uncertainty and the matter was compromised by Mr. Foster paying the Government 25 cents per cord and costs accrued.

Jordan Valley, Idaho, is greatly in need of a flouring mill, and if somebody with money to spare would build one it would be a profitable investment. But little wheat is raised there at present for the simple reason that they have no facilities for making it into flour. Jordan Valley is a good wheat growing region and the farmers there would gladly turn their attention in that direction if they had a flouring mill. All the flour that they could produce would find a ready market in Silver City, and as it would only have to be hauled from twenty to thirty miles the people of that camp could get it much cheaper than from any other source.

The Olympia Courier of Wednesday says: On application of H. G. Struve, Esq., attorney for [illegible] and the other stockholders of the N. P. R. R., a temporary injunction was granted to-day by Judge Greene restraining the Sheriff of Lewis county from collecting the taxes assessed by that county against the railroad company. It is claimed by the plaintiffs that the incorporation act of the company passed by Congress exempts the railroad from taxation in the Territories. This is a test case and its final decision will be looked for with much interest as it involves the payment of many thousands of dollars annually by way of revenue to four different counties in the Territory.

TWAIN'S INTERVIEW WITH A BOOK PEDDLER.—A book peddler visited Mark Twain at home to get his subscription for a new work of which he carried a copy. He found the genial Mark hoeing in his garden. He was kindly received and asked to take a seat. He took a seat. The seat was on the top of a fence, the uppermost rail of which was sharp. He was not happy when he sat down, and he got no happier as he remained. He remained there too a very long time, and Mr. Twain was very kind. He talked to him about the book and its author whom he knew [illegible] the pictures and the letter press, and then he branched off into other and very deep literary subjects of which the agent knew nothing. After an hour or so Twain hospitably asked the agent into the house, and then he talked to him some more. The agent was getting very tired and very hungry. Twain excused himself for a moment and stayed away an hour, during which time the agent suspects he took his dinner. He came back and was still very kind and talked again. It was now nearly 6 P. M. and the agent had come about 11 A. M. He had nothing to eat and not a word had been said about a subscription. He grew desperate and asked Twain if he would subscribe. "I think I will," drawled Twain, "but not to day; come to morrow and we will talk about it." The agent decamped and now he swears—though he had a nice time and Twain is a good talker—that he will never go back again—no, never.

ALAS!—The Boston Traveller now advises us that the clerk who was carried for about four years on the pay roll of the House Postmaster without doing any work was the private secretary of General Garfield, who took this means of paying him out of the national Treasury for personal services. We hope General Garfield can disprove this grave accusation and especially the additional averment that he threatened to secure the removal of the present Postmaster if he disturbed the arrangement.—N. Y. Herald.

THE [illegible] LAW AS APPLIED TO NEWSPAPERS

[illegible] Shepherd of the District of [illegible] recently went before the [illegible] Criminal Court of the District [illegible] against Charles A Dana editor of the New York Sun for publishing a libel against him within the District. It is stated [illegible] with anything Dana never said or intended anything of Shepherd unless he [illegible] an honest man. But we cannot [illegible] with the press in general in its view of this legal proceeding and of the law under which it is carried on. The alleged libel was contained in the Sun printed in New York city but [illegible] the District. The United States criminal code makes libel a crime at [illegible] the common law, which prevails in the absence of statutory enactment, declares that a libel is published wherever it is circulated, no matter where it may have been printed. Why then should not Mr Dana be tried in the District of Columbia for a libel committed in the District by circulating therein libellous matters concerning a citizen of the District? It is difficult to perceive upon principle, what wrong there is in this and yet the newspapers almost without exception appear to consider it a great injustice and an outrage upon the liberties of the press urging that it is a grievous persecution for a man to be dragged from New York to the District for trial on this offense. We can not agree to this notion. If instead of libel Mr Dana had committed theft at Washington City nobody would think it a hardship for him to be tried at Washington and to be arrested in New York and carried to Washington for that purpose. The crime of libel is committed by the malicious publication of false and defamatory statements concerning another person. Is such an act less atrocious than larceny? If Dana were charged with stealing Shepherd's purse at Washington City it would be agreed on all hands that he ought to be carried to Washington City, and tried where the crime was committed. But a man's purse is trash and worse than trash compared to his good name, and yet the [illegible] Dana robs Shepherd of a good name in Washington by the circulation there of libels printed in New York, Shepherd should go to New York to seek redress among strangers for an injury committed some hundreds of miles away. Suppose the editor of the New York Tribune whose paper has an extensive circulation in Oregon, should for some reason publish through his columns a statement that some citizen of Oregon designated by name was a thief alleging particular instances of theft committed by him, and suppose the citizen thus assailed should feel so aggrieved as to wish to seek legal redress where ought the trial to be? In Oregon, where the offense, in all its potential effects was really committed or in New York whither it might be impossible for the injured party to go at his own expense? There can be but one answer it seems to us, and, at all events, there can be no answer that would not be equally as applicable to larceny or burglary, or anything else as to libel.

But it is urged that it is not certain the defendant is guilty of the libel, till after the trial and it is manifestly unjust to put him to all the expense and vexation of a prosecution far away from his home which at last, may turn out to be malicious or may have been instituted under a misapprehension of the facts. Is not the same true of all other crimes? It is not certain that the defendant is guilty in any case till after the trial and conviction, and even then such are the imperfections of all human methods of investigation it is not by any means infrequent that subsequent events show him to have been innocent. In all such cases injustice is done and the same is often true of civil suits but shall the criminal laws be suspended, and all attempts at the administration of civil justice be abandoned for this reason?

Again it is said there should be some different rule for the case of newspaper libels as the very nature of a newspaper business renders its publishers peculiarly liable to be harassed by this law. There may be something in this view but, after all, we think a careful analysis of the subject will show that it ought to have but little weight. It is unquestionably true that a newspaper is peculiarly liable to get its publisher into the meshes of this law and cause him to be dragged away from his home to meet criminal charges but the reason it is so is that a newspaper is in itself peculiarly liable to commit the most grievous of all misdemeanors that of libel, in places remote from the office where it is printed. A man who carries a rifle takes more chances of being arrested and tried for the murder of a person who has been found [illegible] with a bullet hole in his forehead [illegible] although the evidence [illegible] at the trial may show conclusively that the dead man was killed accidentally by a shot aimed at [illegible] the law that authorized his arrest should not be condemned as unjust and oppressive. Men who carry guns [illegible] to publish newspapers must accept the truth that they are engaged in business of a character that is [illegible] of things [illegible] liable to be a great injury to their fellow men and [illegible] themselves into trouble and must govern themselves accordingly. In proportion [illegible] newspaper is more liable to commit [illegible] against the [illegible] grievous wrongs to individuals [illegible] [illegible] from its point [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible]

[illegible] ought to be [illegible] in [illegible] when the San Francisco Chronicle [illegible] we feel like making [illegible] board [illegible] were [illegible] accommodation.

THE COLUMBIA RIVER MAILS

The letter signed "Occasional" which will be found in this paper calls attention to an evil that should be remedied right speedily. We allude to the irregularity in the mail service between this city and the Dalles. We are almost every day in receipt of mail matter from the country east of the mountains that has been on the way so long as to be useless. This is wrong. The contractor should be held to his contract at least to the extent of delivering the mails within 48 hours after receiving them. That is the requirement of his schedule, and it is just 36 hours more than is necessary to perform the service. Twelve hours are all that has been required for years and surely 48 hours is long enough making ample allowance for difficulties arising out of the monopoly of the portage by the O S N Co.

We have heard it said this enterprise of Mr Moody is the entering wedge of a permanent competition on the river. Let it enter by all means. Goodness knows competition is needed badly enough. But that is no reason why men should violate their contract with impunity and the people be deprived of the mail facilities. And then if this little mail contract is all the bottom of the opposition line or its main stay, the thing will fail. That now is well be considered as a foregone conclusion. Give the people the benefits of opposition boats if possible but do not step the United States mail service on one of the most important routes in the country in order to put a trifling sum into the coffer of the Company that proposes to establish the competing line.

AFTER PORTLAND NEW YORK

There is imminent danger of the resignation of six policemen of New York. At least so we infer from the fact that for more than three months the police force of that city have not been paid and we know by actual experience at home that whenever the pay of a metropolitan police force is withheld six policemen resign. There is one difference however between the position of affairs in New York and that lately existing here. Here the Police Commissioners audited the bills of the policemen and were commendably anxious to see them paid off, while the Common Council obstinately, and we have always thought wrongfully, refused to appropriate the money to pay them while in New York the Board of Police Commissioners have got into a quarrel over the election of one of their officers and failed to organize. From day to day they meet and go through the farce of attempting to effect an organization and from morning to morning the papers have the same report to make nothing effected. Meanwhile the policemen are out of money, out of credit and are hawking their pay lists on the street corners, or pledging them to money lenders at the slight discount of from five to ten per cent a month with margin enough on the advances to cover some months continuation of the ruinous folly of the Commissioners. If six of these policemen do not resign in spite of the urgent protests of the Commissioners as was recently done in Portland, we shall entertain a more exalted opinion of New York civilization than heretofore.

MR DANA'S CRIME AGAINST THE WASHINGTON BOSS

The attempt to get Mr Dana editor of the Sun indicted in Washington for articles published in New York failed through the common sense of the Grand Jury. If the [illegible] really made up their mind to try the effect of gag law on the press there is of course nothing to prevent them but they will discover before long that they have done themselves far more injury than the newspaper could ever do them. Mr Dana's offense seems to have consisted in exposing the Washington Ring and in the Congressional investigation into that Ring substantiated his principal charges. We are unable to agree with Mr Shepherd in thinking that Mr Dana ought to be sent to prison. Such [illegible] that by which the swindler Murtagh [illegible] of the Government organ at Washington obtained a contract for street paving and demanded $25,000 [illegible] to them have never been explained. Mr Shepherd himself has never told what he thinks of the Murtagh business. And it is only an example of scores of similar cases. There were both jobbery and robbery in the proceedings under the now defunct Board and if a journalist cannot bring forward the proofs of such offenses when they are offered to him we shall be compelled to acknowledge that freedom of the press is a thing of the past in the United States.—N Y [illegible]

LETTER FROM THE DALLES

THE DALLES JULY 2[illegible] 1874

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Nobody having favored you with a letter from this vicinity lately I venture to [illegible] on the weather (this first of course) and general status of this community, in a few brief sentences. So far this year the seasons have been very cold [illegible] Our spring [illegible] unusually protracted [illegible] winter [illegible] without danger or inconvenience and our summer has been characterized by high wind. Almost daily with only two hot days the thermometer reaching as high as 98 in the shade. Our climate is [illegible] healthful to an unusual degree but [illegible] the [illegible] river [illegible] [illegible] in the [illegible] of the river [illegible] and [illegible] in the [illegible] of the [illegible]

In the first place there [illegible] total [illegible] in the mercantile line [illegible] and a lack of energy or pluck [illegible] The O S N Co's boats appear to have [illegible] freights both up and down [illegible] the number of vacant stores appears to increase rather than diminish. The [illegible] of the [illegible] We have [illegible] the [illegible] giving power here—the new paper—but it being purely mechanical [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the paper [illegible] [illegible] in its columns for [illegible] The [illegible] of the purely physical is aptly named.

[illegible] Its irregularity still continues with [illegible] regularity. Mr Moody the present contractor has bought his elephant and we the people must take the consequences of this rashness and inefficiency. He built [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] she is termed the spirit out of all who have any interest in her. I understand that they seriously without joking contemplate changing her name and calling her the [illegible]. Since the 1st of July the [illegible] she has made one successful round trip without breaking down where she ought to have made one daily.

Meanwhile the U S mail, always heretofore considered a sacred institution not to be played with or neglected is scattered near and far along the route some mails finding its way on horseback overland or up and down the river in a skiff in the hands of parties picked up for the occasion or as I understand detected as smuggled on board the boat of the O S N Co. Letters which while the O S N Co had charge of the mail transportation reached their destination from the Dalles to Portland in twelve hours are now weeks in accomplishing the [illegible] and you can imagine the disorder arising therefrom. A friend of mine was yesterday the pleased recipient of a letter mailed in your city three weeks [illegible] How long will this continue.

OCCASIONAL

[illegible] STATE—A dispatch from Elkhart Ind dated July 14th says Mrs D A Danforth of this place is one of the forty [illegible] heirs of the estate of Henry Mar the well known millionaire of Scotland. The snug little sum of $30,000,000 will be shared by 26 heirs among whom is also Prof J M [illegible] the Wizard of the World.

A CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR OF OHIO.—Congressman Charles Foster of the Fifth Ohio District who has gained a good deal of popularity by his services in investigating the moiety swindles and by his effective warfare on Butler is suggested as the next Republican candidate for Governor of his State.

BORN

In this city July 22 to the wife of Geo McLean a son.

Glasgow Weekly Mail please copy.

MARRIED

In Clackamas county July 14 John W Howlett and Mrs Lucinda Russell.

DIED

In this city Thursday morning July 23 Dr G W Brown aged [illegible] years. Dr Brown was a native of Louisiana and came to this coast in 1840.

Funeral services this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence on Main between Second and Third streets.

A CONVENIENT BOOK.—Since Mr Stott ... the Clerk office ... his deputies ... engaged in getting up a form ... the date on which the deeds ... are received ... Two large books filled with ... receipts have just been finished for the purpose above mentioned. The books are each divided into twenty six parts, every letter ... being represented. When a person brings in a deed the Clerk writes across the back the date on which it is received. After it is recorded the blank receipt in the book is filled ... by the Clerk and when a person ... is required to sign his name ... Should he never call the deed ... it ... secure place ... method ... will save the Clerk a great deal of trouble ... doubtless be taken as conclusive evidence. By turning ... mortgages in ... arranged in similar order.

THROWN FROM HIS HORSE.—Yesterday afternoon Mr M— Spaulding, while on ... way out to ... slaughter house at the north western suburbs of the city met with a severe accident. When some distance beyond the B street bridge one bridle rein suddenly gave way and the horse became unmanageable in a moment. Mr Spaulding found himself on the back of a horse over which he could exert no control and to render his position more perilous one of his feet was fast in the stirrup. His presence of mind did not forsake him and leaning forward he clasped the frightened animal around the neck and held on while he endeavored to extricate his foot from the stirrup. Most fortunately Mr Spaulding succeeded in getting his foot free but the horse was rearing and plunging ... that time so that he was dislodged from the saddle and thrown violently to the ground. When he came to take an inventory of injuries, he found ... thumb dislocated ... severely bruised ... more or less scratched up. Considering all the circumstances he is inclined to think that he came off fortunate.

SAVED FROM A WATERY GRAVE.—The Colonist of a late date contains the account of a narrow escape from drowning by Mr Alfred Wilkie, of the Anna Bishop Troupe while out bathing. The paper says: "Mr Wilkie probably overtaxed ... swimming about in mid stream when suddenly exhaustion overcame him. Out of his depth with a swift current ... began to look very black. Visions of a concert without a tenor or no concert at all ... With an heroic effort he called for help. Mr Hill who was swimming near, heard him and struck out ... to his rescue seized his back hair ... the consequences ... and brought him in triumph to the boat. We are happy to say Mr Wilkie has thoroughly recovered ... smiles ... while his voice ... concert ... escape from a watery grave."

CLACKAMAS PAPER MILLS.—The Oregon City Enterprise says: "We took a ride to the Clackamas Paper Mill last Monday evening and found ... in full operation. The mill ... been shut down ... making ... repairs ... better than ever. The quality of paper ... compares favorably with ... the proprietors are able to supply the demand of the northwest ... Messrs Lewthwaite & Smith ... thoroughly ... They have ten men employed ... mill ... trade."

POLICE COURT.—Two cases were disposed of yesterday morning in this court. Charles Gail the miserable hopeless inebriate and petty thief was called to answer the charge of stealing two canary birds. Charles did not succeed in making a satisfactory defense, and the court sent him up to be cared for by Sheriff Jeffery for the space of three months. Theodore Brunn, a young bellicose German who works at the Globe Hotel was arraigned on three separate charges of assault. He pleaded guilty ... each charge, and was fined accordingly. ...

MORE IMPROVEMENTS.—We understand that Mr David Monastes will next month remove the buildings on First street now occupied by W Hutchinson jeweler, David Cole, ... J Blum dealer in dry goods, H W Monastes dealer in crockery ... Silver ... dealer in dry goods, and on this lot 200 by 50 feet will erect brick buildings two stories in height. This will be a great improvement in that locality and in addition ... the above Mr J A Strowbridge will build a brick building next spring on the corner south of Mr Monastes property.

CALIFORNIA'S GREAT RACE

THE DATE FIXED FOR NOVEMBER 7TH

At a meeting of the Jockey Club, held on Wednesday the preparations were further considered and a resolution was adopted finally appointing the great race for Saturday, the 7th of November. The Club is wise in the selection of the time, fixing the date after the subsidence of the unpleasantly bracing zephyrs from the sea, and in the midst of the most delightful period of the California season.

Regarding the prospects of the race so far discernible, seven entries seem to be assured, with the probability of more. The Club adopted a resolution at their last meeting allowing $500 for traveling expenses for horses entered from any States west of the Rocky Mountains, other than California. The allowance for Eastern horses is $1,000, and whether any addition thereto will be allowed to foreign horses is not announced. Several noted horses are expected from the Eastern States, but the entries not yet having been received, they can not be designated with certainty at present. The famous horse Tom Bowling would have been included but an accident sustained by the animal in the race at Long Branch a few days since, similar to that which last year unfitted True Blue for further exploits on the turf, has debarred the engagement.

California will be represented in the contest by the veteran Thad Stevens, Joe Daniels and ... Mr. Winters is expected to enter Ballot-box or old Norfolk, if not both, and several other proprietors of running stock in the State are considering the expediency of entering the lists. Mr. Sargent of Oregon has a horse imported from the East two months ago, with this race specially in view. The animal is now under training by an experienced jockey, late of the Tom Bowling stall. It is not improbable that Oregon will have additional representatives in the field. Among the foreign contestants will be an English horse from Australia, and there is a report that something very large in the shape of a package of horseflesh will be shipped direct from England. There are also indications that the Dominion of Canada will be represented in the race. A few weeks hence the appointments may be more definitely announced, but it is already assured that the competitors for the grand prizes will be numerous, and the contest will be the most exciting of that order ever witnessed in the country. The prize offered by the Club is $25,000 in gold, of which $13,000 is awarded to the first horse, $5,000 to the second, $4,000 to the third and $3,000 to the fourth in the race.—S. F. Bulletin, July 18.

IN A WASHINGTON HOTEL

"Murray" in the Danbury News says: From our place we may survey the adjoining tables. There is the brilliant Crawford of the Pittsburg Leader on our right. Nesmith, of Oregon, the wit who overtops Sunset Cox and drowns the memory of Proctor Knott in legislative laughter.

GOOD POINTS OF A COW

1. Youth. A cow is in her prime at from four to six years, and the best paying time to buy is just after the birth of her second or third calf.

2. Prominence and fullness of milk veins and velvety softness of skin. The milk veins run down on either side of the animal toward the udder and are easily perceptible to the eye, or can be readily found by pressure of the hand if the animal is not over fat. The skin should be soft and mellow, not hard, rough and staring.

3. Symmetry, fullness and ... of the udder. It should be broad, well spread out, projecting behind the legs, and ... forward under the belly. There should be ... and thinness to the touch and ... of fleshiness and thickness.

The Wool Trade.

The bulk of the California Wool clip has been marketed and we have passed the middle of the season in our own State. The trade of the entire season so far has been active. The receipts here are still quite large, most of that arriving coming under contracts made hitherto at the fair rates ruling. But the quality of many lots now coming to hand ... is rather inferior to the average offering in the earlier part of the season. In the review of this trade in San Francisco the Examiner of July 1 gives a statement of the current rates for the different varieties which shows that Oregon Wools still maintain high rank in that market. That paper says:

"The active trade of the season has been concluded, and dealers are now closing out old lots of spring and the Oregon clip. A large quantity of the northern clip has been contracted for, and is coming forward more freely. Many of the raisers are grading and shipping direct to the East, giving San Francisco the go by, and acting independently. Careful estimates give the following figures: East year's fall clip received in 1873 ... bales; spring clip 1874, 56 ... bales, 300 lbs to bale, shipped from Sacramento direct East, about 1,000,000 lbs; from Los Angeles and San Diego ... lbs; on hand of all descriptions, say 750,000 lbs. We quote Oregon fleece at ... and California at ... for ordinary to choice shipping, and extra long choice staple as high as ..."

The Boston Shipping List of the 11th inst., in reference to the future of the market and the prospects for the fall clip, says: "Our trade for the coming season promises to largely exceed the previous years. Manufacturers have been free purchasers, and receivers have freely met buyers at current rates. Offers for round lots a shade under have very generally been refused and from our present stand point we look for a firm market for some months to come, if not throughout the season. We do not see how wool can be any lower on the seaboard while in the interior the clip is so rapidly passing into the hands of consumers and dealers. California wool notwithstanding the increased supply of western fleece is still sought after by manufacturers, and prices are fully sustained. This is not surprising. The condition of the California clip has so far been very satisfactory, and as long as it is sent to market in such good condition it will meet with a ready sale. Prices have ranged the past week as high as ... per pound for very choice, having been sold at these figures, and there is more of this description left. The bulk of the sales have been in the range of ... with transaction of nearly six hundred thousand lbs. ... Boston dispatch of the 15th says:

Receipts of domestic Wool the past week have largely exceeded any previous week in the history of the trade, and the amount must amount to nearly five millions. The total receipts of domestic for the past seven weeks reach ... bales, against ... bales for the corresponding period last year. Notwithstanding these large receipts, the demand has been quite equal to the supply, and it has only been during the past week that stocks have begun to accumulate. California is less inquired for but sales at up at a fair average, amounting to nearly ... pounds."
